NORWAY AND VICINITY.
James Willis Crommett.

The community was much shocked on Wednesday night when it learned of the death of James Willis Crommett, a resident of Norway for more than 35 years.

Mr. Crommett, who has been an invalid for the past two years and a half, was out on the street Wednesday and appeared in his usual health. He sat down to the table about 5 o'clock and at a few minutes past five dropped dead. Death was caused by valvular heart trouble.

He was born April 21, 1855, and was the son of James and Esther Moore Crommett. He attended school in his native town and later in Boston.

In 1876, on the 19th of October he married Elizabeth Hopkins, who survives him, also two sons Norman Allison Crommett of Philadelphia, who works in the Midvale Steel and Iron Works, and Carl Willis Crommett of New York, who has been at home a short time.

Mr. Crommett has worked in the shoe shop. Several seasons he operated the large steamer, the Pennesseewassee and the Henrietta on Lake Pennesseewassee.

Mr. Crommett attended the Congregational church and in politics was a Republican. He was a member of the Odd Fellows, the Eastern Star and Masons.

NUMBER 11.

Supreme Judicial Court.

March Term, 1910.

Thursday morning the trial of the suit, Kinball v. Cummings vs. Ernest E. Field, was begun. Mr. Cummings is a resident in the town of Woodstock not far from West Paris, and has in the past done business as an apple buyer. Mr. Field is a farmer living near North France.

This suit was brought to recover for $50 cash paid by Mr. Cummings to Mr. Field as part pay for his crop of apples in 1908, eighty barrels furnished by Mr. Cummings and labor of his men packing at Mr. Field's. In the fall of 1908 Mr. Cummings bought Mr. Field's apples, which were stored in the barn that Mr. Cummings' packing crew packed 47 barrels of apples about the middle of November, but that a cold spell meanwhile coming on, the apples chilled and quite a portion of the apples were left unpacked.

Mr. Cummings paid Mr. Field $50 on the apples, and later notified Mr. Field that he was ready to have the apples delivered at West Paris, but Mr. Field declined to deliver them until he was paid in full. The apples which had been packed were never delivered and in the spring were dumped.

J. S. Wright was counsel for Cummings and Kimball & Son for Field. The case was settled between the parties, Mr. Field paying Mr. Cummings $45.

Thursday afternoon the case of Charles K. Eames against the town of Albany for the transportation of his daughter to school for one term was heard. The statute provides that the school committee shall provide for the transportation of scholars, where it is necessary, to the nearest suitable school. In this case there were schools at Hunt's Corner and Lynchville, the one at Hunt's Corner being the nearest.

The school committee told plaintiff that if his daughter would walk to the main road, 1 mile and 20 rods from her home, they would take her to and from the Lynchville school, but in order to carry her to the nearest school it would have necessitated a special team for her alone. Mr. Eames did not agree upon this arrangement.

Mr. Eames brought suit against the town for $25. The case was taken under consideration by Judge Whitehouse. A. S. Kimball was counsel for Eames, J. S. Wright for the town of Albany.

Much interest was manifested in the trial, Friday, of the action of Flora A. Stearns of Norway vs. the Harrison Mutual Fire Insurance Company. The action was to recover damages for a fire in which the farm buildings and furniture of the plaintiff were burned.

The fire occurred on the 24th of August, 1908, the buildings were destroyed by fire, the fire being discovered not long after midnight. The fire started in the barn, which was nearly destroyed before Mr. and Mrs. Stearns, who were the only people at the place, were awakened or called to the place. Two horses and four cows, which were supposed to have been tied in the barn, were found feeding outside. The buildings were entirely consumed, a few of the farming tools and some of the furniture from the house being saved with the aid of the neighbors who assembled.

Payment of the policies is resisted by the company on the ground of fraud. The principal feature of the evidence on which this contention is based is a typewriter which was in the closet at the time of the fire. According to the testimony of a man and a boy who were at the fire, the man took the typewriter from the closet, carried it to the door of the house and delivered it to the boy, who carried it some distance from the house and placed it behind a rock. A neighbor, later saw the typewriter and told Mrs. Stearns that her typewriter had been saved. After the buildings had burned down and the neighbors went home, for the last hours of the night only Mr. and Mrs. Stearns were at the place. Later the typewriter was found partly burned in the cellar of the house, not under where the closet had been, but a little distance from it. The typewriter was taken out of the cellar by the representatives of the insurance company, and was produced in court, and it was urged by counsel for the company that its appearance showed that it had not been through the heat of the fire, but had been thrown into the cellar after the fire had died down. In Mrs. Stearns' proof of loss, the typewriter is included at a valuation of $85, though she testified that she had bargained it to her daughter, who is a stenographer, for a price of $60.

The fact of the stock being found in the barn was urged by the defense as a circumstance tending to establish fraud in the case, and it is also alleged that Mrs. Stearns put fictitious values on articles in her proof of loss, and that she failed to report in full the property that was saved from the house.

Hon. A. S. Kimball conducted the case for Mrs. Stearns, and Judge Enoch Foster for the insurance company, and the case was handled with great ability in all respects.

The plea by A. S. Kimball was one of the best that has been heard, and although everything pointed in favor of the other side Mr. Kimball's plea was a most excellent one and has been commented on by many, not for its flowing language but for the plain, sound common sense which it contained and the eloquent manner in which it was delivered.

This case went to the jury about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. After being out three hours they returned a verdict for the defense.

The grand jury was discharged Thursday afternoon, after completing its work. Indictments as follows:

Wm. F. Jordan and P. J. Whitman, malicious mischief.
Mike Urban, two indictments, nuisance and common seller.
Peter Ayotte, forgery.

Andrew Jordan, forgery.

VOLUME XII.

Cow-testing Association.

Waterford and Norway Cow-testing association met in regular monthly session all day on March 9, at the new Grange hall in Norway. Officers present: L. E. McIntire, president and Clayton McIntire, assistant secretary.

A good number of active members were present at the opening of the forenoon session besides a fair attendance of ladies.

By request, Secretary McIntire, in an interesting manner related his experience and observations as a student at the short term of dairy instruction at the University of Maine the past winter. There were 11 students in this class from Maine, two of whom were from Waterford. He described the dairy routine of study of the scientific and practical methods in vogue in present day advanced schools, and advised all persons interested in dairying as an avocation to take a course of study and practice of the art of butter-making at our State college. The short term is only four weeks.

Several important subjects were proposed for discussion.
President McIntire seemed charged well with topical questions and displayed a fine knack of calling up the speakers; so it reminded one of an old-fashioned revival "experience meeting."

With Brother McIntire in the role of class-leader. And if there is anyone to better exemplify the pure ethics of good farming it is certainly Brother McIntire.

Under the inspiration of the occasion the debate became very instructive and much valuable information was extracted from the half score of intelligent farmers present. Frozen silage for milch cows was discussed by some who had practical knowledge of it, who testified that judiciously fed it is not injurious.

W. A. Hersey, of Norway, described his method of yellow corn ensilage, estimating it to be so much better than sweet corn as to require one-third less grain in the daily rations. Mr. Upton said he thought yellow corn ensilage worth double that of sweet corn.

A. D. Cummings described his method of furnishing water to his cows in winter, which evoked discussion. Mr. Roberts, Jr., and the president gave accurate estimates of the comparative value of sweet corn silage and good hay for dairy cows. $150 worth of corn being as good as six tons of hay. W. A. Hersey gave a report of raising 150 bushels of oats on five acres and considered it a very valuable crop. He gives one feed of ensilage and two feeds of oat straw and hay each day.

A discussion arose in the afternoon of the conditions and advantages of membership and upon the question of admitting members for 25 cents without testing privileges. A new by-law was then proposed and adopted by vote, as follows:

Hereafter all persons joining the association shall be classified as follows: Those who put in cows shall be called active members; those who do not put in cows shall be called inactive members. Active members only shall be entitled to grain discounts, or other pecuniary benefits arising from membership in the association.

An excellent dinner was provided by the dairy women of Norway for all visitors. A vote to adjourn to second Wednesday in April at South Waterford.

The Holy City.
"Jerusalem, the Holy City," was presented at the Opera House, Saturday evening, in an excellent manner. The play is one that is out of the ordinary and has attracted a large crowd, the Opera House being nearly filled.

The play is a strong biblical drama and represented the way in which Christianity was received at the time of Christ. The play opens in a street at Jerusalem with the meeting of Jesus with a young Roman. One of the disciples, Calaphas, the High Priest. Andrew proclaims the doctrine of Christ and Narius upholds him in his teachings, much to the discomfort of the High Priest. The scene turns to the throne of the king, the king of the Jews, who is celebrating his birthday. Salome, the daughter of Herodias, dances the dance of death and the king in his drunken condition gives her choice of what she wishes, and in league with Calaphas, she asks for the head of the Baptist, brought to her on a charger. Narius, the lover of Salome, gives up the girl of his choice at this. Elizabeth, John the Baptist's mother, made a beautiful plea for her son, and after the execution returned to the throne and plainly and pathetically denounced the High Priest for his actions. The other scenes introduced were the Conspiracy, the story of Mary Magdalene, the denial of Peter, the trial before Pontius Pilot, Judas betrayed of his master, the crucifixion of Michael, the Resurrection and flight of the angels, the latter being a large beautiful picture.

The costumes were very elaborate and the light effects and scenery grand and the acting that of professional artists, who did some very fine work.

Willie Leavitt and Clarence Parker gathered the brown tails in the S. I. Mill orchard for D. C. Seltz, who now owns the farm. They found him a good and seventy nests, enough to do many dollars' damage.

Captain Henry B. Millett of Portland, formerly of Norway, has recently been granted $80 a month by a special bill which has passed both branches of Congress and signed by the president.

Millett served in the whole of the Civil war in the 10th and 29th Maine regiments. During the illness of some of the officers he was in command of Company G, 10th Maine Regiment. Captain Millett was known as "Little Major" Millett, and he was a very popular officer.

On Thursday evening, March 10th, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Edwards celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary at their home on Fern street, by having a family reunion. There were about 40 relatives present. Readings were given, and no one was separated from their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards received many pretty and useful gifts. Refreshments of barlequin ice cream and cake were served. After spending a pleasant and enjoyable evening the company separated to go to their several homes, wishing them many pleasant anniversaries in the future.

Star Course Entertainment.

The fourth entertainment of the Star Course was given at the Opera House, Tuesday evening, March 15th, to a small audience, by the Boston Concert Company.

There was a little disappointment on the part of the entertainers and audience as they were unable to give the Carnival part of the entertainment on account of an accident to the machine which happened in transportation so that it could not be used. It was announced by C. F. Riddle that the entertainment given would be by the Concert Company, not the Carnival part of the program.

The music was by Mrs. Lavinia Dietze, pianist, and Mrs. Edith Pettigill Cochran, soloist. Mrs. Cochran's well trained and beautiful contralto voice was a pleasure to music lovers, especially in the "Happy Song" by Bel Riego and "Don Fatale" from the Opera Don Carlos. Her last selection, "The Old Folks at Home," pleased everyone present. Mrs. Dietze gave two piano solos.

The reader, Mrs. Charlotte Adams Dunne, rendered "The Stage Driver," "The Boy's Story" and "My Wedding Day" in her own inimitable manner, also the encore that she was asked for again and again.

Throw Out the Line

Give Them Help and Many Norway People Will Be Happier.

"Throw Out the Life Line"—The kidneys need help. They're overworked—can't get the poison filtered out of the blood. They're getting worse every minute. Will you help them? Doan's Kidney Pills have brought thousands of kidney sufferers back from the verge of despair. Will cure any form of kidney trouble.

Otto Schnuer, Main St., Norway, Me., says: "I have no hesitation in allowing my name to be used as an endorser of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of a severe attack of kidney trouble several years ago and I have taken them on several occasions since then when I have felt that my kidneys needed a tonic. This remedy has always given me prompt relief and has rid my system of urine poison. Other members of my family have also used Doan's Kidney Pills with excellent results. I hope every person in Norway suffering from kidney trouble will procure this remedy from Stone's drug store and give it a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Spring.

The brooks go singing down Their upland pathways steep; From willow buds of brown The gray poplars green. Springtime sunbeams smile, Springtime breezes play, And winter snows the while Are melting fast away. Bird-notes softly call, Flower-time is nigh. And budding o'er all Smiles a cloudless sky. Into the hearts of men Grown and with sorrows deep, Singing once again, Hope's sweet voices creep. Glad notes softly call, A gold-light shines o'er, For budding o'er all Smiles our Father's love. HORTENSE GARDNER GREEN, Norway, Me.

Burning Desire for Earthly Gain.

Have you read of a man in the long ago? He was a miserly man whom we all well know. His name I will give you, it was Reuben Crane. He had a burning desire for earthly gain. He would lie, he would cheat to make his ends prosper. Or would steal when there was a chance of gain. He lived a strange life, a life of sin, With a loathsome disease infecting the skin. His face was as red as an onion could be, And the warts on his nose looked like bark on the tree. He was cross eyed, "yes awful" this was caused By looking for interest he never had got. He thought that "his papers" were all well secured, But as a season they only endured, Finally he sent for a lawyer to draw up his will. The doctor he came and gave him a pill. Disasters worked together as they always do, In spite of the care of a lifetime all went through. The bills came, came in were enormous and great. Surely they threatened old Reuben's estate. The last page was completed, the story is ad, For they took all the belongings old Crane ever had. H. HOWE.

The Man-Bird's Flight.
Record of Flying Machine Sensations. Gently gliding, sweeping skyward, on the soft wind and rise. Ever onward, upward soaring, as the eagle mounts the skies. Far above the land of mankind, where weak human ills are rife, To the mystic realm of birdland, far from earthly noise, care and strife. Then I see afar below me, walking—talking human things. Those my brothers, creeping, crawling—I a bird with soaring wings! Now the mankind's left forever, indistinct, no longer seen—Only cities, fields, the tree tops, and the ocean's golden sheen. Onward, upward, ever gliding, through the softness of the night, Now among the whirling wild fowl, winging northward, southward, eastward, westward, Charming, enchanted, soul entranced, just a wild thing of the air, Let me ride the airy ranges, life forgotten, free from care! "BOB" JONES.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other disease put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Do farmers eat the proper sort of food?

The farmer of today buys a much larger proportion of the food that goes on the table than he did ten years ago. It's a good thing that this is so because he has a great variety to select from. He should, however, use great care in selecting for the best results in health and strength.

The widespread tendency in the city to increase the amount of Quaker Oats eaten is due very largely to the recent demonstrations by scientific men that the Quaker Oats fed man is the man with greatest physical endurance and greatest mental vigor.

Farmers should give this subject careful thought and should increase the quantity of Quaker Oats eaten by themselves, their children and the farm hands.

The regular size 10c package is not as convenient for the farmer as the large size family package at 25c.

C. E. Brown in the War.

MR. EDITOR:
The pleasant reminiscence of the Civil war I received a few days ago in a letter. The widow of my brother who passed away in Mechanic Falls last summer found it among his effects. This was published nearly 60 years ago, in 1849, in the Oxford Democrat, and gives an account of some of my war experiences.

In 1860 I went to Staunton, Va., was foreman in the stitching room in the shoe factory and got caught out there when the war broke out.

After my escape from the South I reached Abington, Mass., in June 1862. One year later, June '63, at Rochester, N. Y., I enlisted in the Northern army and was there till the war closed. It was my fate to be in the front lines right where Gen. Lee surrendered.

C. E. BROWN.

An Abington Man in Rebeldom.
[The following article, which we copy from the Abington Standard, refers to Mr. Charles E. Brown, formerly of South Paris.]

The inauguration of the great rebellion in 1861, found Mr. Charles E. Brown, of East Abington, in Staunton, Va., stitching knapsacks for the rebels. When the dark cloud of secession enveloped the Old Dominion in its sullen folds, and the aspirations of foul-mouthed rebels tarnished her honor and robbed her of glory, Mr. Brown found himself hemmed in on every side, and unable to reach his northern home. He visited Manassas, July 27, and unfolds a tale of horror, regarding the condition of that bloody field, a week after the battle. Many of the dead were still unburied, others only partially covered upon the spot where they fell, and without an apology for a grave, their extremities rotting in the sun.

During the winter Mr. B. made several attempts to return home. Failing in these and not relishing the idea of being drafted into the rebel army, he turned his steps in the direction of New Orleans, and thence northward, determined to die rather than fight his northern friends. A Union man in Louisiana informed him that it was madness to attempt reaching the North—he would never live to get there. What money he possessed was in Confederate scrip. This was turned into gold, at a sacrifice of fifty per cent.

Mr. B. reached Decatur, Ala., unmolested, and was passing through a portion of that army which afterwards fought at Corinth, when he was arrested and taken before the military authorities. With true Yankee courage and strategy he managed to escape from military surveillance, and, after a fatiguing walk of three or four miles over a circuitous road, he reached Athens, Ala. It was no sooner known that a northern man was in their midst, than the natives, about forty in number, arrested and summarily examined him. He was informed that his papers had already assisted in hanging several men, and that he would soon be one of them. Some thought it best to hang him immediately; others thought that as he had escaped from the military authorities, he should be given up to them. This latter counsel prevailed, and Mr. B. was again taken to Decatur.

His lot was now truly miserable. He was confined in a small room, which was furnished with even less than Spartan simplicity. The furniture of the room consisted of a long box partly filled with soldiers' clothing. This he emptied, and appropriated to his own use. Here he was left to his own reflections, which were not very refreshing. Food was scarce, at least in his cell. Often not more than two meals per day were doled out to him, and sometimes this was not brought till noon. At one time he passed two days without food. But partial starvation was not the worst feature of his condition. For two or three weeks, he retired at night, expecting that before morning the steel of the rebel assassin would be bathed in his blood, or that some unseen messenger of death, from the rifle of a lurking foe, would hurry him to his final account. No pen can describe the horrors of such a situation, or depict the imaginings of a mind tormented with such a fancy. At last he was permitted to leave his miserable quarters, and given the liberty of the town, with orders to report twice a day. Even then several of his "personal friends" were anxious to shoot him. He was in this condition when the federal army appeared before Decatur, and rebels left in a hurry, leaving him behind. Mr. Brown now, attached himself to the 4th regiment Ohio Cavalry, and returned to the North immediately, where he arrived in just one week after he entered the lines of the Federal army.—[Oxford Democrat.]

William C. Gammon.

The community was shocked by the intelligence that our neighbor, William Gammon, had died very suddenly while visiting his daughter, Mrs. Bertha Keniston of Lovell, Tuesday, the 1st day of March.

The Best Thing About a Bank

A bank which takes deep hold upon the confidence and respect of the people at large is by all odds the proper place for funds when safety is wanted.
Such an institution, and no other sort, is well prepared to weather any and every financial disturbance which may arise in the course of the years.
A bank's strongest advantage is at this point—without it, gold and time locks, stone, brick and big figures are all chaff and sawdust.
Be sure of your money by entrusting the keeping of it to such a bank. The facilities of this bank, of over 38 years uninterrupted service, are at your disposal.

Business in Town.
People want to stop and think a little before they cry "no business in town." We will mention a few of the parties doing business. Hobson & Trombly's mills employ from 30 to 50 men; J. L. Osgood's quarries employ from 15 to 20 men during the summer season; Baxter's corn factory, from 70 to 75 help during the corn season; Chas. Fox, several men in his grain and pulp wood business; Mr. Cook, several in his mill; Mr. Fife, several men in the seed business; and there are a number of small concerns in town which employ from 3 to 5 men.

Ervin Hosdon will open up business in town, making concrete blocks to be used for basement of Mr. Merrill's new residence.

We still have a large amount of snow in town.
Three new residences will be built this coming spring.
Mrs. Thoms reports the hotel business is improving.

Several fishing parties started for Lovell pond, Sunday morning.
J. L. Osgood will soon start his quarries, with several contracts on hand.

L. B. Jones of Lakeside, Florida, an express messenger, was seriously injured in a head-on collision. His spine received injury and there were severe contusions elsewhere, causing paralysis of the lower limbs to be feared. The trains met on a curve while approaching one another at a fair rate of speed. The engines were reduced to scrap iron. Mr. Jones was hurled through the open door and the contents of the car piled upon him. It is quoted as a hour or more to extricate him from his painful position. Mr. Jones is from Oxford, and a brother of George Jones, the druggist.

George Hazen is attending court at Paris, this week.

The Primary school at Oxford village will begin Tuesday, March 22nd. The school at Welchville will begin Monday, March 28th. At the regular meeting of Craigie Temple No. 4, Pythian Sisters, on Wednesday night, March 9th, three members were initiated into the order. The ritualistic work was admirably done, and the team work was carried out with precision and accuracy. In fact, the entire work of the Temple is done in a dignified and business like manner that must be exceedingly gratifying to those members who have worked hard for the success of the order. The order of Pythian Sisters should be supported and encouraged by every true Knight. Their influence, which is beneficial to every community, extends into every state in the Union, and their members are intimately connected with the Knights of Pythias and should receive the hearty support of every Pythian lodge. The members of Craigie Temple are enthusiastic in their work, their meetings well attended and it is one of the most hustling Temples in this district.

An Appreciation of Dr. Marcus F. Brooks.
Those who knew Marcus F. Brooks will always reverently remember him as a noble gentleman. His simplicity, humility, earnestness, fidelity, spirituality were apparent to all who knew his friendship. It was my privilege to be his pastor in this city for several years. He served faithfully our beloved Congress Square church as a member of the congregation and as one of the parish committee. It was his delight to talk with me on the great themes of religion and theology.
Coming from Norway to Portland, he made for himself an honored place in his profession of dental surgery. He had graduated from the Tufts college dental school. So highly was his ability regarded by the faculty that he was elected Dr. Harold Williams, representing the executive committee of the school, invited him to occupy the chair of operative dentistry in that institution. On account of ill health he turned from his profession to outdoor occupation for several years. He resumed his practice, and longed for a return to a city he dearly loved, he remained with us about ten months. Gladly did I welcome him. He was the same genial, attractive friend. He had the same deep interest in things eternal. He saw that the things which are seen are temporal, and the things which are not seen are eternal. Deeply did he study metaphysics. Well did he express deep feelings in verse and essay. His literary work appeared in the Metaphysical Magazine. The last poem, written shortly before his death, unpublished, was entitled, "Passing Through the Gate." His words, in fine penmanship, he bequeathed me a I write. The last verse is:
"O! Infinite Power, whatever my fate,
I trust in Thee as I pass through the gate,
Beyond the realms of earth—with spirit free,
Crowned by Thy love—with incense richly."
His devoted wife survives him. His devoted friends thank God that they knew him, loved him, honored him. The memory of his gracious, noble life will be a constant inspiration to be like him.
HENRY BLANCHARD.

Rev. A. T. McWhorter's Lecture.
Rev. A. T. McWhorter gave his interesting lecture, "From the Pine Tree State to the Land of the Shamrock," last Thursday evening at the Methodist church to a good sized audience. This lecture was given under the auspices of the Epworth League.
Mr. McWhorter began with his trip starting from Boston, telling the things of interest that happened along the journey, visiting places of interest at Queens-town, Liverpool, London, Dublin and other towns along the route, and gave the audience a very good idea of the manners and customs of the people with whom he came in contact. He spent several weeks at his home a few miles from Dublin, and while there visited his friends and early acquaintances. He told how on one day he was treated to tea and on another day in particular after making a number of calls and drinking tea with each he called at one place which was to be the last call for the day, when just as he was about to leave the hostess informed him that he must have some tea. He declined, giving his reasons, but the hostess won the day so they drank their tea.
Mr. McWhorter visited London again after leaving his home. He visited Westminster Abbey, the House of Parliament, St. Paul's Cathedral, London Bridge and other places of interest and gave an interesting talk on each.

Mrs. Eva R. Fox, who has been visiting here, has returned to Bethel.

Pretty hard sledding on Main street these days. It is no unusual sight to see a "team stuck." In fact it has been an unusual sight to see a loaded team that did not get stuck on the bare ground.

Tongue-Twisters.
"A growing gleam growing green."
"The black breeze-blighted the bright broom blossoms."
"A flesh of freshly-fried flying fish."
It is almost impossible for any one to repeat these three sentences fast. They are the gems of a collection of tongue-twisters that an elocutionist has made. And almost equally difficult are the following, taken at random from the elocutionist's collection more than two hundred tongue-twisters.
"Six thick thistle sticks."
"Two toads tried to trot to Tebury."
"Give Grimes Jim's great gilt gig-whip."
"Strict, strong Stephen Stringer snared sickly six sickly, sticky snails."
"She stood at the door of Mr. Smith's fish-serve shop welcoming him in."

Try the experiment of grooming the cows.

Sabbatus, Maine.—"You told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills before child-birth, and we are all surprised to see how much good it did. My physician said 'Without doubt it was the Compound that helped you.' I thank you for your kindness in advising me to take it. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. Farmer Boys' and Girls' Clubs.

One way in which agricultural education has made rapid strides during the past decade has been through the organization of clubs of farmer boys and girls. At the present time there are over 150,000 boys and girls in agricultural clubs in the United States. There are Corn Clubs, Potato clubs, Small grain clubs, Garden clubs, Poultry clubs, Swine clubs, Sheep clubs, Cattle clubs, Domestic clubs in various branches and others. The nature of the club depending on the particular work the young people wish to take up.
Many of these clubs are carried on in close relation to school work, others under supervision and assistance similar to that which might be furnished by the State college of Agriculture or the State Department of Agriculture.
The methods and means of work in a club depend on circumstances. In a Corn club the members might begin with seed selection, germination tests of a few ears and then plant a small plot from the seed selected and tested, and exhibit the results at the Grange field day. The whole plan leads to the study of seed, soil and cultivation, meetings being held occasionally for lectures and discussions.
The opportunities for club work in Maine and the benefits of such work to Maine boys and girls, and to the State, have been talked about in this State. Now the Department of Agriculture is ready to investigate the conditions with a view to assisting in the organization of a few clubs.
Those interested should write to A. S. Crook, Assistant Dairy Instructor, Augusta, Maine.

"Saner Fourth."

After all, the booming of guns and the spitting of the firecracker and the popping of the Fourth is in no sense a celebration; it is but a silly method of making nuisances of scores of otherwise patriotic American citizens.
One of the most absurd and most provoking sights to be seen on the Fourth is that of a man walking along the street on July 4th, tapping a torpedo cane on the sidewalk at stated intervals in his majestic march!
And people—some people—a few people—admire the thing and say in ecstasy: "My! How patriotic he is!" Patriotic? To himself. Positively, it is silly!

The Fourth of July should be a day of great significance. It should mark the high-water level of American patriotism. The story of the birth of the new republic should be told afresh. In song, story and realistic display. The struggle of the Fathers to establish a new nation on a new foundation, and the value of the priceless heritage handed on from son to son should be driven home to the minds of those who are apt to regard a free gift too lightly.

It can never be done through the snapping of firecrackers. It must be done through a consecrated effort on the part of good citizens to see the day observed in a manner commensurate with its importance as the birthday of the mightiest Republic in all the world. [Independent-Reporter.]

In one of the roughest basket ball games ever played in the Coburn gymnasium, Hebron defeated Coburn in a close and exciting game by the score of 11 to 7 Friday evening, in the presence of a large attendance. Hatch, of the Hebron team, was severely injured in the second half by coming in contact with the wall.

The New York Sun has been keeping tabs on Mr. Taft's little journeys, and announces that since he became president he has averaged 56 miles a day as a traveler, 20,638 miles on steamer and railroad, and 5,000 miles in automobile; that he has broken Roosevelt's record by making 348 speeches in one year against the latter's record of 242.

A neat way to mend table linen is to darn it with linen threads on an old tablecloth. It will look much neater than a patch sewed on. It is advisable to keep a piece of a discarded tablecloth in the mending basket for that purpose.

More Corn Wanted.

More corn is wanted on every farm in the State. Now is a favorable time to look over the situation and decide how much it is desirable to plant and where it shall be located. This is a matter of much importance. Everyone admits the necessity for more grain.

At the same time everyone admits it can be grown on the land now in possession of its owners. The only question is whether or not it will be grown on the land where wanted or whether obtained by purchase. This is the great question now before the people of our State.

There is no question but a large part of the grain feed needed by the farmers of our State can be produced on the land where needed. That is called for is to plant the seed and care for the growing crop. The land is in waiting, the seed is in readiness, the grain is wanted, so that all that is needed is to put the seed into the ground and await the return.

There can be no question but the grain will be wanted during the year. Too much have the farmers been dependent on the western grain to meet the wants of their eastern herds. That course was all right when the grain could be obtained at about one-half the price of cost at the present time, but is now found to be more than the business can well bear. The cows will have to have their grain ration reduced or it must be grown on the home farm.—[Farmer.]
